

(13) Luckily, Mr. Bezos knows the good stuff to order. (14) The waiter came out and set some cheese on fire. (15) “Opa!” we shouted, and then the waiter put out the fire with lemon juice. (16) We scooped up pieces of the melted cheese with a fork and ate them on pita bread. (17) My mouth is watering just thinking about it.

(18) The main course was just as good. (19) Alexis and I had gyros, which were like fajitas or soft tacos, but the meat was spiced differently. (20) The sour cream tasted a little funny to. (21) Maybe it wasn't sour cream. (22) Alexis and I ate our gyros with fries. (23) Dad probably ordered the fries thinking that's all I would eat. (24) I asked Dad to let me taste some of his food. (25) It reminded me of hush puppies, but he called it something like feel awful. (26) I'll bet that's not the way its spelled, though.

(27) Finally, the waiter brought us the dessert menu. (28) Yum! (29) I wasn't sure what to get because I didn't know what anything was. (30) I decided to try something that at least had an interesting spelling. (31) I chose the baklava because I thought it might have ice cream holding back some chocolate lava. (32) It didn't, but it tasted scrumptious. (33) Real lava is melted rocks. (34) The baklava was made of flaky pastry with nuts and some kind of syrup on the bottom.